DESIGN CENTRAL

Camp Design Central

With all of the hype about D-schools in higher education, Design Central has gone to the source of creativity. We chose 2 of 500 middle school inventors to participate in a one week workshop to expose students to industrial design early in their education & engage them in the development process using their own inventions. The students became our clients & worked with our team in all development stages from brainstorming, product branding and 3D CAD development to model making. The results helped the girls get provisional patents on their products. One of our inventors, Marissa D'Anieri, will be featured on Montel in a show about Teen Inventors during sweeps week. Want to sponsor the next Camp Design Central? Call Sharon @ 614.890.0202.
